

E-LEARNING IN HEALTH AND SOCIAL CARE

Neil Johnson

NHSU

THE AGENDA

- To consider the challenges to learning in health and social care
- To consider the benefits of e-learning
- To consider the challenges of e-learning
- To show an example

LEARNING IN H&SC - THE CHALLENGES

■ The health and social care system

- Variability of facilities
- Pressure on time

■ The education system

- 'Push-dominant'
- Variability of access
- Variability of quality
- Work-distant
- Inflexibility in time and place

■ The people

- Numbers

■ Range of previous experience

E-LEARNING - BENEFITS FOR H&SC

- The health and social care system
  - Promoting information literacy
- The education system
  - Promoting 'pull' learning
  - Access at work
  - Consistency
  - Flexibility in time and place
- The people
  - Distribution to all

THE NHSU

- A new organisation of and for health and social care
- Promoting improvements in public service through a transformation of learning
- Significant focus on e-learning

E-LEARNING - CHALLENGES FOR NHSU

- The health and social care system
  - Consistent facilities of high quality
  - Best use of time
- The education system
  - Work-based e-learning
  - Widespread ability to use facilities
  - Support for e-learning
- The people
  - A new experience

E-LEARNING IN THE NHS - AN EXAMPLE

- Working for the NHS
- Targeted at all new entrants to the NHS
- Designed to
  - put care at the centre of learning
  - use both e-learning and face-to-face
  - consider values, structures, relationships and learning

KEY MESSAGES

NHSU
uniting health
and social care